Inquest Into Death of Charles Bove, Who Was Struck by an Auto

Adjournment Taken Until January 4 In Order To Give Family of Deceased an Opportunity To Bring In Any Additional Witnesses.

There was an inquest Thursday afternoon before Coroner W. N. Conner to inquire into the circumstances surrounding the death of Charles Bove, local bartender who was struck by an automobile driven by John R. Millard of the city on November 27 on Broadway near Pierpont street. Mr. Bove resided at 15 West Pierpont street. While crossing Broadway at about 11:55 on the night in question he was struck by the Millard Ford coupe which was proceeding up the hill and suffered fatal injuries from which he died on November 28. Coroner Conner presided at the inquest and the examination of witnesses was conducted by Assistant District Attorney N. LeVan Haver. Mr. H. Fleuming appeared as counsel for Mr. Millard. At the conclusion of the hearing Mr. Millard was called and instructed that he might if he so desired make a statement in regard to the facts but he was advised that in the event he did make a statement it would be necessary to sign a waiver and that any statement made by him might be used against him in any future action. Mr. Millard said he did not desire to make any statement at the time.

Adjournment Taken.
An adjournment was taken until January 4 at 11 o'clock in order to give the family of deceased an opportunity to bring in any additional witnesses. All of the witnesses available to the district attorney were examined at the hearing Thursday.

Mr. Millard, who is the local Ford dealer in Kingston, had been attending a meeting of the directors of the Kingston Oil Company on Strand street. The meeting closed about 11:30 and the directors left the plant and proceeded home. Mr. Millard drove his Ford coupe up the hill behind a car driven by J. David Schenck. The accident happened at Broadway near the intersection of Pierpont street.

J. David Schenck was the first witness called. Mr. Schenck testified that he was accompanied by William P. Glass and Lewis Brown. They drove up the hill and when near Pierpont street he looked in his mirror and saw a car following him. It was less than a block behind him. He could not say how far or whose car it was. The car had been following him for some distance. Mr. Millard had been at the meeting but he said he did not know when Mr. Millard had left or whether the car behind was that of Mr. Millard until after the accident.

Saw Man Step Off Curb

As he approached Pierpont street, Mr. Schenck said he saw a man, Bove, step off the right hand curb and proceed diagonally across the street. He said the course of the man was from the hill toward his car and he feared his car to the right to avoid the man. At the time he first saw the man Mr. Schenck was driving in the center of the right lane about half way from the curb to the center line of Broadway. The last he saw of the man was when he passed and the man was walking slowly across the street about half way between the curb and the white line on the right of the street. The man walked with his head down and when the lights of the Schenck car shone on him he did not hasten to get out of the road. The man left the curb about 75 or 100 feet north of the Pierpont street curb line. Next he saw Bove on the pavement to the left of the center of the street, going up the hill, and 20 or 25 feet north of the intersection of Pierpont street. He heard no horn sounded and his attention was attracted to the accident when he heard a crash. At the time Mr. Schenck was driving about 20 or 25 miles an hour. At no time did he observe the car behind attempting to pull past his car on the left. He had observed the lights for a long distance following.

Lewis Brown Testifies

Lewis Brown was next called and said he was seated in the rear of the Schenck car and did not notice the Millard car until after the Schenck car had stopped after the crash. As they drove up Broadway at about 20 miles an hour he saw a man start across the street from east to west about 75 feet up from the corner. The man crossed at an angle and was facing sort of down. He hesitated in his path and Mr. Schenck pulled his car to the right to pass. At that time the man had his head down. The Schenck car had passed about two or three car lengths when there was a crash and the car was stopped. The body was on the left of the street going north and near the Pierpont street curb. Mr. Millard drove his car up Broadway the Schenck car and stopped. Mr. Brown said he thought Mr. Millard had stopped before that but had passed up to their car in order to get in to the curb. There were no other cars parked in the vicinity. The left headlight of the Millard car was bent backward.

Edgar P. Crowell of South Wall street was called. He with Kenneth Taylor of Pearl street and Paul C. Zorco, a Central Hudson Gas and Electric Company employee, were riding down Broadway in the Zorco car. Mr. Crowell said he saw the body of a man on the pavement.

New NRA Code For Commercial Banks Makes Radical Changes

Local Banks Seek Extension of Time to Prepare for Business Under New Rules—Many Changes in New Code—Maximum Interest Rate Set. No Accounts to be Carried at a Loss—Must Carry Minimum Balance—Other Provisions.

On call of Philip Elting, president of the Ulster County Bankers Association, there was a meeting at Kingston Wednesday evening of the bankers of the county to consider the set of rules governing fair trade practice as approved by the banking code committee of the American Bankers Association and the National Recovery Administrator. The rules, sent under date of December 23, did not reach Mr. Elting's hands until Saturday last and a number of stenographers were set to work immediately to make copies which were sent out to the various commercial bankers of the county for their consideration.

The code, which is a lengthy document, makes many changes in present banking practices, some of them radically different from the procedure heretofore followed by most if not all of the Ulster county banking institutions. Many of the provisions are such as to demand a considerable amount of consideration and analysis in order to determine their exact meaning, and the proper method of carrying them out. The rules as submitted by the banking code committee are to become effective January 1, 1934, and because of the great amount of labor involved in putting them into practice the representatives of the Ulster county banks, at their meeting Wednesday evening, decided to ask for an extension of time to allow them to make necessary changes in their present banking practices, procure needed forms, etc.

The code provides that local rules which may be adopted by the Ulster county bankers must cover all matters enumerated in the standard code submitted. They must equal the minimum requirements established by the standard code and must not exceed the maximum requirements.

Among some of the provisions of the new code are:
Banks shall keep their doors open for the purpose of serving the public not to exceed 56 hours per week. The maximum rate of interest on time deposits, thrift deposits and certificates of deposit shall not exceed 5 percent per annum, compounded semi-annually.
No interest to be paid on Christmas Club accounts, school savings, vacation, travel, or similar purpose accounts.
No account shall be carried at a loss to the bank or at an expense of other accounts or other depositors.

Cash Register Smile on 13-Year-Old Girl Merchants' Faces as Admits She Killed New Year Approaches

New Yorkers Planning "Something Special" for 1934 Welcome—Real Money Required—Roaring Business Expected in Liquor Shops.

New York, Dec. 29 (AP).—Cowell and confetti merchants—no, to speak of the vendors of things spitting—were today that smile that only the cash register symphony can evoke.

For New York, with the old year a-dying, was preparing to make this New Year's Eve celebration something special. Spending real money on the preparations, too.

Hotels, which have had to get the old plush ropes out of mothballs to control crowds in taverns and cafes, have tried to keep the ball a-rolling by holding New Year's Eve parties down to what in some other years would be considered cheap.

Twelve dollars a plate is the top figure announced thus far, and for that you get not only supper, dancing and entertainment but a souvenir from Carriette's thrown in. For $10, at another hotel, you get supper, plus a bit of entertainment, plus a bit of breakfast at 4 a. m. If you feel that way.

Other leading hotels scale less elaborate fees down to as low as $3 a plate. Broadway's night club prices range from $12.50 with Helen Morgan on the piano down to half that figure. At practically all places, wines and liquors will be a la carte, (that's how they say "extra"). In many resorts there'll be "cocktails" charges to stimulate any one who gets the bright idea of bringing his own champagne.

A roaring business is reported at retail liquor shops. One large department store said its wine and liquor department has been handling 1,000 customers daily. Another, although withholding official figures, was understood to be averaging over $100,000 in sales weekly.

Charles Wilson, for 20 years manager of Old Sherry's Restaurant and now manager of the Ritz-Tucker, looks for a brilliant but decorous New Year's Eve.

"There'll be more of the flavor of the old days," he said. "More wholesome congeniality than in recent years, less wildness. Folks won't have to go around carrying mysterious packages."

Right to Regulate by Britain Fights for Law Sale of Goods Made New Trade Strength In Prison. Argued Here In Overseas Situation

League and Agricultural Products Only Figure in Anglo-American Negotiations—Three Main Points Are Series Russian, France and U. S. Copyright 1934 by The Associated Press.

There was a very important legal issue brought before the court today by Judge John T. Loughran on the question of the right to regulate the sale of goods made in New York state. Harry Greenblatt of New York brings an action for an injunction against John J. Bennett Jr., Attorney General of the State of New York, to prevent the State from enforcing a state statute and also an act of Congress on the grounds that both of the statutes are unconstitutional.

Henry Epstein, senior general of New York, appears for the attorney general and the plaintiff is represented by Mortimer Finkel of New York. At the conclusion of the argument which lasted some two hours, Judge Loughran reserved decision.

The Federal statute is known as the Hawkes-Coper act of January 19, 1929, which goes into effect five years after passage, and it provides that all goods produced wholly or in part by convicts or prisoners when transported into any state for use or sale shall on arrival in such state be subject to the operation of the laws of the state.

Pursuant to that statute the New York State legislature on February 28, 1933, enacted a statute amending the general business law to provide that no convict made goods shall be sold in this state, except under certain defined conditions. The New York act will become effective in January, 1934. It is the intent of the plaintiff to have a court determination before the act becomes effective.

Mr. Greenblatt contends both statutes are unconstitutional. He contends that the United States Congress cannot surrender its power to regulate interstate matters to the states. It is further contended that even if the Federal statute is valid, that it deprives the people of property without due process of law and that it interferes with freedom of contract.

The State of New York contends that since New York state declares its purpose as "to protect free labor from the unjust competition of convict labor" the statute is a valid police power of the state.

At the conclusion of the argument which was held at chambers Judge Loughran took the papers and reserved decision.

Professor Claims U. S. Full of "Carpet-Bags"

Head of Public Finance Department at Northwestern University Says Condition May Develop as After Civil War.

Philadelphia, Dec. 29 (AP).—Herbert Simpson, professor of public finance at Northwestern University, says the widespread bankruptcy of state and municipal governments has resulted in the establishment of "carpet-bag" governments in this country.

"Statesmanship throughout the nation consists in immediately going to Washington," he said in an address for delivery today before the American Economic Association.

"The acquisition of federal grants for one's state or city has become the goal of American statesmanship, with the result that we are setting up a system of veritable 'carpet-bag' governments, which differ, of course, from the 'carpet-bag' governments after the Civil War, but whose consequences are likely to be similar in many respects."

Supervisors to Meet Saturday

An adjourned session of the Board of Supervisors will be held Saturday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock at the court house. This will be the last meeting of the present board and all business now pending will be terminated at this session. In January first the new board will go into power. An organization meeting of the new board will be called shortly after the first of the year. There will be a number of new faces in the board after the first of the year, when the board will be Democratic for the first time in many years.

City Shivers In Extreme Cold, Temperature Reaches 22 Below

Lowest Temperature Recorded at 6 A. M. Was 22 Below—Bloomington Reports 24 Below—Ferry Transport Ice-bound—Freighter Caught In Ice—CWA Sewer Workers Knock Off Work—Snow Gang Still Working.

ELTING MENTIONED TO SUCCEED MACY
New York, Dec. 29 (AP).—The arrival of a cold front, bringing a low of 22 below at 6 a. m. today, was the lowest temperature recorded at the Municipal Park on East O'Reilly street registered 16 degrees below.

New additions to the list of non-apparatus to the state highway department came quickly with the snow, but in the best informed Republican quarters here the matter was placed upon the agenda of speculation.

Among those suggested as successors to State Chairman Macy are Melvin Eaton of Chemung county, manager of William Donovan's campaign for governor; Clarence King, Oneida county chairman; F. Trubee Davidson, candidate for lieutenant governor in the last election; Lafayette R. Gleason, secretary of the Roundabout state committee; Representative James W. Wadsworth, collector of customs in New York city; and Mayor Roland Marvin of Syracuse.

Man Is Frozen
William Hillis, 70, of 213 Catharine street, who was working on a CWA project on Mary's avenue had both hands and ears frozen and was taken to the old armory where he fainted. Police headquarters were notified and removed Mr. Hillis to the Kingston Hospital in the ambulance.

Zero Weather
Zero weather prevailed here Thursday, and during the night it grew much colder. The subzero weather closed the Hudson river and the ferry transport after battling to all Thursday afternoon made her last trip of the day at 6 o'clock this evening. This morning it was found impossible for the ferry to continue her schedule and she lay ice-bound at her berth in the Rondout creek. So heavy was the ice that the tug Rob was also unable to combat it.

Amazing Cold Wave Paralyzes Business And Traffic in State Never in recollection of observers was there a day so cold as noon—Boats Fast in Ice, Trains Late and Few Automobiles Driven.

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 29 (AP).—An amazing cold wave which virtually paralyzed business and automobile traffic, and shot New York state temperatures down as low as 50 degrees below zero, still gripped the state at noon today.

It was one of the coldest days in the history of the state. So intense was the cold that at midday, in spite of brilliant sunshine, it was still 13 below zero in Albany, 19 below in Syracuse and 24 below at Malone.

Some concern was felt for the comfort of the city, of a party of wolf hunters, who were in a thin-walled shack in the woods near Belmont. This Adirondack town had a reading of 50 below zero.

At Malone, motorists wore skin on their hands when they inadvertently took hold without gloves of automobile door handles or other metal parts. People on the streets ran about with faces whitened from frozen moisture, caused by their breath.

Houses creaked, and throughout the lake region lakes heaved as great ice cracks formed. In the Hudson two coast guard cutters fought to reach freight steamships locked fast in new ice.

Update cities have had colder weather in January and February, but never in the recollection of some weather observers was there a day so cold as today. It was 47 below at Buffalo, 15 below at Binghamton and six below at Rochester at midday.

Few automobiles were driven. Those that did go out in the communities where temperatures were 20 below or lower were trailed by long white clouds of vapor. Trains ran late, unable to get up steam pressure. Motor bus drivers threw their entire strength into the turning of steering wheels. Air brakes systems froze on some buses. Many stores had no customer.

The state spread across New York from Manhattan to Buffalo and Canadian border. Records were smashed at numerous points. Owl's Head, often called the state's coldest hamlet, lost the honors to Belmont and Mount View, not far away in the Adirondacks. It was 47 below at Owl's head, 46 at Mount View and 50 at Belmont.

One death was directly attributed to the cold. William Johnson, 44, of Tonawanda, died of exposure standing in line for a CWA job. Temperatures below zero are reported here, south of the Adirondacks. Yet all the state's large cities were below zero.

About the lowest temperature ever recorded in New York was 64 below zero at River Bend near Malone, January 23, 1925. Gustave S. Lindner, Chief States meteorologist at Albany, termed the cold wave "extraordinary."

BY HERBERT PLUMMER
WASHINGTON—That the present tariff administration will continue to "stand still" as far as a general tariff policy is concerned is evidenced by a recent White House expression that prevailing international conditions are not favorable.

The negotiated tariff idea had a prominent place in the campaign arguments of President Roosevelt. Since the inauguration has elapsed without his migration with little change made in this direction.

A bilateral treaty has been signed with Colombia, but must await ratification by the national legislatures of the two countries before it becomes effective.

Repeal of the eighteen amendment added new impetus to the old policy of " Yankee trading."

Joined as he is, however, with a tariff wall higher than any ever enjoyed by a president, Mr. Roosevelt as yet has used that authority in only a few instances.

• • • • •

Little Action So Far

UNDER the broad flexible provisions of the tariff act, the President is permitted to lower tariffs to even more so than his republican predecessors.

These provisions empower the President to raise or lower any specific duty any 50 per cent. There has been little indication that the tariff commission is doing more than marking time.

Importers say the commission has been flooded with requests for standardization duties, not if any reductions have been made. It is thought that the White House in any report case they take will keep them in sight.

When NRA came along, additional powers were granted the President to meet the fear that any rise in domestic prices would bring a flood of exports. It had its effect in an export against imports which increased domestic recovery measures, but no additional powers to lower duties were indicated.

Hull's Resolution

SECRETARY HULL'S activity at the Pan-American conference in Montevideo is advancing his tariff resolution calling for downward revision is considered significant. At the same time adoption of the Latin American delegates to the Hull resolution does not imply obligations.

Tariff changes, for that matter are not effected at international conferences.

President Roosevelt evidently has this in mind as his reason for seemingly believing for the present at least, that the best method in the direction of world wide reduction in tariff walls lies in the negotiation of bilateral treaties with individual nations.

At last after years of experiment and research, Science has discovered how to combine two of Nature's most important foods. The result is a new delicious cereal called Yeasties — a carefully balanced blend of toasted whole wheat flakes with fresh active yeast.

Tens of thousands of constipated sufferers who dislike the taste of yeast are finding in Yeasties a new delicious way of taking it. Every flake is so full of active vitamins that it could properly be called a yeast flake. Feeding experiments continued over a period of two years show that Yeasties is capable of sustaining life without the addition of any other food.

And not only in Yeasties such a perfect, health giving food. It tastes delicious, too, rather like popcorn or toasted nuts. Children love it. And wise mothers are giving it to them regularly every day. For Yeasties not only helps to keep their bowels regular but gives them added energy and vitality.

Yeasties is very economical in price. Every package contains 10 generous servings — each serving equal to 10 servings of wheat flakes plus 10 portions of yeast. If you bought these separately they would cost at least 43¢. You get them together in Yeasties for only 17¢.

Ask your grocer for a package of Yeasties right away. Give it to your whole family regularly at least once a day. Notice how they like it. And notice in a few days the extra vitality and happiness it brings.

SANTA CLAUS VISITED PRESBYTERIAN SCHOOL

Santa Claus paid his annual visit to the members and friends of the Goodout Presbyterian Sunday school who had gathered in the chapel of the church Thursday evening to enjoy the annual entertainment and Christmas tree. The evening's exercises were opened with choral singing of Christmas carols led by Thomas Rowland in which all joined and then the following members of the primary department recited appropriate Christmas selections: Anna Alda Van Deusen, Amy Palmer, George Wolf, Mary Darling, Dorothy Miller, Marilyn and Margaret Crane, Norman Mannes. The boys of Miss Grainger Stewart's class gave a little play. Miss Elizabeth Bishop sang two Christmas solos, and recitations were given by Mary McCausland, Adele Hiber, Vivian Duffley and Alice Burns. Then while the school was waiting the arrival of Santa Claus, Fred L. Van Deusen, superintendent of the school, and well known magician entertained with several interesting magical feats. Turning one of the younger pupils into a human pump and pumping water from his arm kept the audience in gales of laughter as well as mystifying them at the feat. Santa Claus then arrived and distributed gifts to scholars and pupils and then everyone present was given a box of candy and an apple and a dish of ice cream. The evening was one of the most delightful in the history of the school.

FERGUSON WITHDREW BUDGET OBJECTION

Andrew Ferguson, Kingston, N. Y., December 29, 1933.

Editor, Kingston Daily Freeman, Kingston, N. Y.

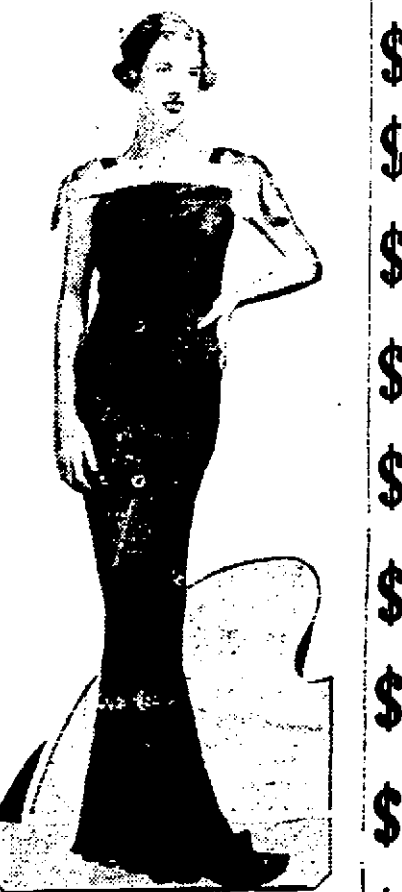

Dear Sir:

In your account of the budget hearing given in the Thursday edition of your paper, you properly stated that I requested the budget of the fire department be limited to the same amount as given last year. After being informed by Mayor Carey that the addition was to take care of the buying of a new truck for Union Hose, and for the purchase of five hundred feet of hose, I then withdrew my objection to that proposed appropriation.

Thank you for the space you have afforded me and for correcting this slight oversight.

Respectfully,
ANDREW FERGUSON.

Billions of Dollars

FROM the peak of $29,000,000,000 in 1919, the public debt shown in the solid line has declined to $14,000,000,000 in 1930. It is now on the way up, reached $23,500,000,000 in 1931, and may go to $35,000,000,000 in 1934. Federal expenditures shown in the dotted line, with the public debt. Ordinary expenditures have been cut during the last year but extraordinary expenditures to finance the New Deal contributed to the $3,000,000 deficit during the first six months of the fiscal year starting in 1933, according to the National Committee for Economy in Government.

Gorilla are very intelligent in their eating, and are particularly fond of bamboo shoots.

The spirit of Christmas with all its attendant festivities was manifest at the "Jack and Jill School" on Friday afternoon, December 22, when the little pupils of the school presented their Christmas program to a large audience of parents and friends and a number of visiting children.

The gala appearance of the school-room with its many and varied decorations showed that the little folks had been busily preparing for Santa's arrival and had made their school so attractive and had so carefully decorated the Christmas tree which adorned the center of the room that they had hopes of St. Nick's being able to pay them a visit and help distribute the many gifts which were under the Christmas tree.

The program was opened by the Christmas circle song as the children took their places singing "Christmas Time Is Here," followed by a recitation of welcome, "The Happy Christmas Day," given by Joan Heggan.

Other recitations expressing the "Santa Claus" spirit and festive side of Christmas were "Bundles," given by Raymond Hartney; "Santa Claus, A Joy Below," Bruce Becker; "A Song of Christmas," Gloria Hartney; "Santa Claus' Helpers," Betty La Torre; "Christmas Is Coming," Doris Morris; "The Glad Christmas Day," Herbert Matthews.

The Christmas Tree speaks, the "Tree Song," by Marjorie Hartney, was given as a group recitation.

by all the children. A modern note depicting the present day Christmas was introduced in the poem, "When the Radio Is Singing by the Christmas Tree", also by Marjorie Barrows, given by Bruce Decker.

An action song, "Father Christmas" and the following traditional songs were rendered: "Jolly Old Santa Claus," "Santa Claus Will Come Tonight," "Santa's Visit" and "Jolly Old St. Nicholas."

The true meaning of Christmas was not forgotten and the religious aspect of the day was expressed in a recitation "Wex" by Beverly Auchmoud, a true compass of Betty La Tour, Joan Morgan and Bruce Becker singing "Silent Night, Holy Night" and songs by the school, "Christmas Bells" and "Old English Carol."

Santa Claus then arrived and after taking the "orders" of all the little people he distributed gifts and candy to all the children and a gift from each child to his or her mother, these latter gifts having been made by the pupils.

The pleasure and enjoyment of their own gifts was increased manifold by the knowledge that they had helped make others happy this Christmas time. "The Jack and Jill" pupils had as the keynote for their Christmas celebration the bringing of joy and pleasure to a group of less fortunate children, and had sponsored the collection of toys and clothes. The response exceeded all expectations and in addition to their own gifts, donations many were received from the community and school and it was most heartening to find was cheer to many deserving families and a large number of children were made happy with toys and gifts.

The pupils of The Jack and Jill School and Mrs. Decker wish to express their appreciation to the faculty, members and pupils of School No. 5, and to all other families and individuals who contributed articles of clothing and toys to the collection, and they wish also to thank the Kingston Daily Freeman for publishing the article making known the needs for which the collection was made, resulting in such a splendid response from those who read of the work being done at The Jack and Jill School.

The cauliflower is well named, for the part of this plant we eat is really the unexpanded flowers of a kind of cabbage. Other flowers that we look upon as useful for decorative purposes only are used in some countries as food. Indeed, it is said, are cooked and served as a vegetable in China or are dried and made into seasoning, while some species of Erysanthemum are chopped fine and served with a cream sauce by the Japanese.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS AND SOUNDS

By ROBERT COONS

HOLLYWOOD—In this varied parade of stars and showgirls, Claire Trevor is going to spend the holidays in New York with several of her friends. She is here for a brief stay in Hollywood before her departure for New York. These include a screen debut in a western, two hard-boiled women reporter roles, and a satisfactory job replacing Sally Eilers in "Jimmy and Sally" when the star wouldn't take the part.

Claire has the further distinction that, although blond and pretty, she has yet to appear in a fluffy evening gown or anything "softly feminine" because she hasn't had a role that would let her wear anything but tailored suits.

Jimmy Gets Hair Cut

James Cagney's Prussian haircut as he embarked on "The Hair Chaser" nearly caused an executive a stroke of hysteria. To keep in character, "He's a Tough Leg," explained Jimmy—Cagney got the haircut and started to work.

After the first day's rushes the executive came chasing to find out whether Cagney had lost his mind. The very idea of getting a haircut without consulting the front office, Jimmy explained about the character "Character" exploded the boss. "What do you think we're doing—a character?"

George O'Brien is through with his "westerns," but not with the faithful gang of screen cowboys who rode with him to the rescue of the heroine in "Ever Since Eve" some of them will be seen in the background, working right along.

Director Irving Cummings and Writer William Conselman, who some 29 years ago played baseball together in Fort Lee, N. J., the early movie center, now have spots on the football squad of the same military preparatory school.

At The Theatres

Today

Kingston: "The House on 56th Street" Smooth moving and poignant is this tragic story of a life that found fate a jester, with Kay Francis, more beautiful than ever, in the starring role of a drama that unfolds the history of a Floradora Sextette beauty of yesteryear. Miss Francis is a chorus girl with a multitude of admirers when the story opens, and when she finally marries Gene Raymond, John Halliday as the other lover, commits suicide in his own house. A trial follows, and Miss Francis starts a sentence of 20 years in prison. The World War comes and her husband is killed in France. Her only happiness in life when she leaves prison is the welfare of her daughter, played by Margaret Lindsay. Ricardo Cortez, a suave gambler, enters her life, but when the daughter becomes enamoured with him, another tragedy is in the offing. Grand acting by all members of the cast, along with intelligent direction makes this show a play worth seeing.

Orpheum: The first picture on the double feature program, "After Tonight," offers Constance Bennett as a Russian spy whose love for Austrian Officer (Gilbert Roland) nearly brings disaster. A war picture but splendidly acted and excitingly interesting. The second picture is "Girl Trouble".

Broadway: On the screen Ed Wynn in "The Chief" and four acts of vaudeville. The picture offers Ed Wynn, the "Fire Chief" of radio fame and "The Perfect Fool" of many Broadway productions, in a splendid comedy. The whole picture is Ed Wynn but he is a clever comedian and there is not a slow moment in the show. Heading a bill of four vaudeville acts is Bartram and Clark featuring Miss Lola Bartram, late feature of the 1933 Zeig Field Follies.

Tomorrow

Kingston: "Dinner at Eight" A four star performance by each of the numerous Hollywood celebrities in this remarkable drama, brilliant direction and a human but tragic story, makes this motion picture one of the really big productions of the year, as well as one of the finest talking pictures yet brought to the public. Jean Harlow, who steals the picture from the other artists in a burst of unforgettable acting, John Barrymore, Marie Dressler, Lionel Barrymore, Lee Tracy, Edmund Lowe, Madge Evans, Wallace Beery, Karen Morley and Jean Harlow are all in the amazing cast. The plot centers around a dinner party being given by an aspiring social climber, and she invites numerous important people to be present at eight p. m. to meet some friends of hers who are prominent socially in Europe. The reactions and actions of these guests who attend the dinner is a skillful study in human haze, longing, bitterness and desire, and each character present at the dinner is disclosed as he or she really is, with his problems, weaknesses and troubles. Tragedy is the keynote of the plot, for the dreams of the woman who gives the party are frustrated, invited guests fail to appear and situations have to be made. All in all the party is a complete failure as a social success, but where it disappoints some, it proves beneficial to others. The greatness of the show lies in the acting, and the acting is excellent. Don't miss.

Orpheum: Same.

Broadway: Same.

FASHIONS by ELEANOR GUNN

Velvet for Formal Gloves

Copyright, 1933, by Fairchild

The long slip-on in velvet, to be worn wrinkled on the arm, is recommended with gray top trimmings. The knitted velvet glove is given width by its double cording at the wrist which holds the flare out from the arm.

If Your Brown Is Unfurrowed

Paris—The talk in millinery circles is on the future of the off-the-hat. If the mode is to last it must be interpreted differently from the previous fashion of this kind which was recent as 1931; and for all but the very young, it must be developed with great discretion. A style which promises well can be described as the Breton sailor, in regular or asymmetric treatment.

posed to one side but not showing the whole forehead, and cut short enough at back to avoid the 1931 look. Sometimes the brim is elongated at one side, or it is caught by a group of gathers or a small ornament. Other versions are extremely shallow Bretons tilted sideways on bandeaux and with their brims scalloped or slashed; these are not called Bretons, but Renaissance, because they suggest those worn by pages at the courts of that time.

DID YOU KNOW THAT

The sequin trend is another key fashion with gloves that have circular sequin designs on the long cuff, handkerchiefs, bags, jackets and neckwear, and hair ornaments.

Cruise motifs such as long necklaces with circle pendants bearing in the center motifs like sail boats, anchors, steering wheels and so on, done in enamel colors with metal are new and smart.

The Ensemble for Holiday Festivities

New York—Whether or not the old custom of reading or New Year's Day is revived in all its old splendor, the chances are, one will have use for something rather special by way of a dress.

The costume with both jacket and train would seem to equip one for almost anything that might turn up in the way of a festival.

Everywhere one goes there are formal, and semi-formal costumes with trailing skirts and with sleeves to the wrists. Very often the long sleeves belong to the jacket, sometimes, however, they are a part of the dress and again they are detachable.

The little fitted jacket, whether of metallic brocade, or metal cloth, is a very handy garment to own. Young, and the not so young, wear them about of nights. They are intended to contribute a note of contrast to the dress, which makes it easier, since one little jacket may have over so many companion dresses.

If you had any doubt about trains being worn, it has been dispelled long since I am sure. Every one seems delighted with the sweeping evening clothes and since it just isn't possible to have wraps that completely cover them, women seem still to prefer those that make no pretense of doing so.

Such sparkling gowns and things as there are being worn, it makes for gaiety if nothing else would, and women are looking particularly well in what might be described as their "glad rags."

Midwinter finds velvet, especially black velvet, much in evidence. It is just the foil for those sparkling embroideries, not to mention accessories and jewels. The alliance of lame and velvet sans fur is as elegant as either with fur.

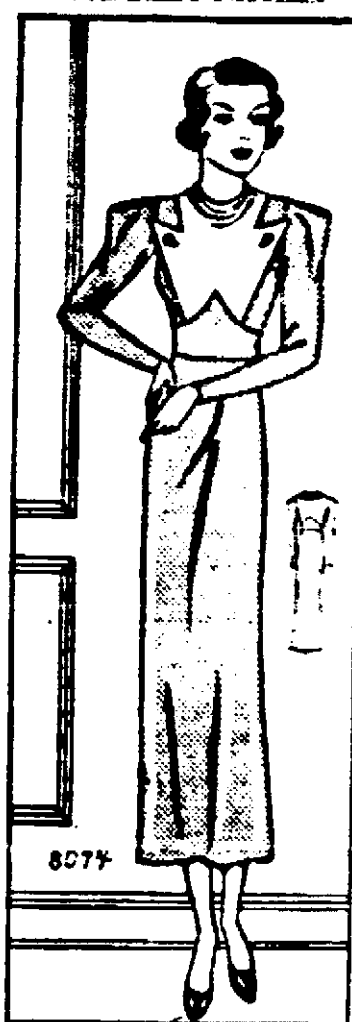

A RECEPTION GOWN

Copyright, 1933, by Fairchild

A dignified evening ensemble showing the contrasting and fitted jacket, and the dress with train, a type to be worked out according to one's individual color preferences.

OUR DAILY PATTERNS

A Pretty Frock for Very Slender Figures

8074. This attractive model is made with bodice portions that support a pleasing plastron on the waist front. The sleeve is new and the cowl neck cut high is ever popular and becoming. A simple two piece skirt lengthens the waist. Nice in velvet, tulle, broadcloth, or in the new sheer woolsens. Brown woolsens with orange for the plastron would be attractive. Or gray for the dress with a deep geranium shade for the plastron.

Designed in 5 sizes: 11, 13, 15, 17 and 19, with corresponding measurements 29, 31, 33, 35 and 37. Size 15 will require 4-5 yards of 36-inch material. If made with plastron portions in contrast it will require 4 yards of 36 inch material, together with 2-3 yard for plastron portions.

Zwieback Dessert (A Delicious Pudding)
2 cups rolled unswetened zwieback 1/2 cup butter
Mix ingredients, reserve 1/4 cup of mixture and pour the rest into buttered shallow pan. Add filling.

Filling
1/4 cup sugar
1/4 cup flour
4 egg yolks
2 cups milk
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 cup shredded almonds Blend sugar and flour. Add yolks, milk and salt. Cook until creamy in double boiler. Stir frequently. Add rest of ingredients and pour on top crumb mixture. Cover with topping.

Topping
4 egg whites
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
Beat whites until stiff. Add sugar and beat until creamy. Add salt and extract and roughly spread mixture on top filling. Sprinkle with reserved crumbs and bake 20 minutes in very slow oven. Cool and chill. When ready to serve top with whipped cream.
This pudding is greatly improved in flavor if thoroughly chilled before it is served; so plan to make it ahead of time, even a day before serving if desired.

To freshen rolls, place them in a damp cloth and lay in a shallow pan and heat 10 minutes in a moderately slow oven. Serve at once.

Waterspout in Action

Waterspout is the name of the funnel-shaped cloud of the tornado when it occurs at sea. It is caused by opposite winds of different temperature meeting in the upper atmosphere. Atmospheric pressure being lowest at the center of the storm the winds tend to rush towards the center but are diverted by the rotation of the earth and whirl rapidly around the center in a counter-clockwise direction (if it is in the northern hemisphere—clockwise if in the southern). A partial vacuum is created in the center which draws the water up in its vortex. It runs its course quickly, seldom lasting more than a half hour.—Pathfinder Magazine.

ARCHDUKE PLOTS TO RESTORE MONARCHY

Austria and Hungary Seething With Rumors.

Austria and Hungary a few days ago. Archduke Otto, 23 years old, is the youngest son of the late Emperor Franz Joseph. He is a man of great energy and ambition. He has been in the army for three years and has been decorated with several orders. He is now in the army of the Austro-Hungarian empire. He is a man of great energy and ambition. He has been in the army for three years and has been decorated with several orders. He is now in the army of the Austro-Hungarian empire.

May Retrieve Crown.

And of all the elements and pretenses to the throne which toppled in the great war, young Otto, according to the opinion of European chancelleries, political observers and professional plotters, seems at present to stand the best chance of retrieving a crown and scepter. He has, unlike any other, two spots in which to light—the republic of Austria and the republic of Hungary.

And the plans of his advisers and of his clever mother, Empress Zita, have been during the past decade from one to the other of the possible labors in accordance with the political shifts of the two baby republics—which seem to have been monarchies too long to rid their systems of the virus.

At present a coup d'état, somewhat along the lines of the airplane descent on Bucharest by King Carol of Rumania, by which he threw his mother, the Dowager Queen Marie, out of power and regained the throne he had renounced, is particularly favored by Otto's advisers. The time is ripe, they declare.

Dollfus Sympathetic.

Chancellor Engelbert Dollfus, recently come into power, is known to be sympathetic to the return of a monarchy—stipulating only that it be a constitutional monarchy modeled on that of Great Britain and not as conceived by the aged Emperor Joseph in pre-war days. In recognition of his twenty-first birthday twelve Austrian municipalities conferred upon Otto the honor of "free citizenship."

Up to about two years ago the youthful archduke and his ambitious mother were working hard on their plans as regards Hungary instead of Austria. Apparently either of the two countries will suit equally well for the launching of a new king. In Budapest at this time the entire press was monarchial and was engaged in bitterly attacking the ministry for its reported announcement to arrest immediately both Zita and Otto should they attempt to enter the country.

In Hungary, also, a number of the municipalities accorded the young man honors similar to those extended him by Austria. But the claimant apparently finally decided the moment was not ripe for the dash to Budapest. The plans may be deliberate and have taken years to prepare, but the leap to either of the two proposed thrones must be done in one quick movement, or not at all.

Mountain That Dances

Aid to Colorado Town

Durango, Colo.—Carbon mountain, the moving peak four miles from here, put on a dance this year that netted Durango $50,000, according to J. P. Channell, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce.

Approximately 5,000 persons from 41 states watched the phenomenon during the summer. Channell estimated this tourist trade to be worth about $50,000 to Durango.

Carbon mountain slowly is slipping downward into the Animas river valley. The movement is caused, scientists believe, by the burning of coal veins.

Few tourists were disappointed on their visits to the mountain. It grumbles most of the day and night, and occasionally puts on a spectacular show, pouring forth volumes of sulphuric smoke or releasing an avalanche of rocks into the river valley.

Tiniest Phone Company

Serves 14 on One Line

Columbus, Ohio.—The smallest telephone company in Ohio, the Shortin' Ridge Telephone Co., of Revenge, Fairfield county, wants to charge its customers $1 a month for service.

An application has been filed with the State Utilities Commission for tariffs for the 14 subscribers who are all on a single line. The company proposed a charge of $1 a month for 35 calls, with 3 cents additional for excess calls.

Organized in April and constructed at a cost of $1,095, the telephone company is now ready to do business. Nine miles of lines and 14 instruments comprise the communication system.

The telephone company was built by Sam F. MacCracken, 82 South Remington road.

$2,000 Moles Costly

Alma, Wis.—County commissioners here paid $2,250 in bounties for moles during the past five months. At 10 cents a mole, this means that 22,500 of the tiny animals were killed. The commissioners have voted to abolish the mole bounty.

Three Types of Bacteria

There are at least three types of bacteria: round, rod-shaped, and spiral. No one knows how many different ones have been identified and named, and thousands yet remain to be studied and named.

Land of Tavora Has

Two-and-Half-Mile Area

Considerable confusion exists over question of just what is the small republic in the world. Newspapers magazines have mentioned both Terra and San Marino in this condition. As a matter of fact to neither does the honor of being the diminutive belong. Andorra has been a republic for centuries, and fact that this country in the Pyrenees mountains on the Franco-Spanish border has 191 square miles contrast to San Marino's 33 certainly puts it out of the running.

But even San Marino is eclipsed by other Italian state, the island of Sardinia, which is off the north coast of Sardinia and which has an area of two and a half miles. Tavora's dependence has not been uninterrupted, but its beginnings go back to man days when it was used as a concentration camp for seditious gladiators. The people on this tale still speak Latin, with their pronunciation aided by German scholars some years ago.

During the years 1836 to 1838 the island was not independent, being ruled by the Bartolomeo family—a son of King Carlo Alberto. In the year the rights of this family were contested and Tavora regained freedom, promptly electing a president and six councilmen who govern the 100 people of the island without a tie through Charlemagne exists between the two states of Andorra and San Marino. For it was in the year 902 when Charlemagne granted the island to the Pirennees her independence. San Marino declared war on at mighty monarch. The latter's secretary reported that the ruler without learning the location of the state which declared war on him.

Famous Pipers Honored

With Monolith and Cairn A monument to the family of Maccormicks has been erected on Skye, largest island of the Inner Hebrides, Scotland. The Scotsman of Edinburgh relates why the Macormicks family should be thus honored:

The Macormicks were the most amous of all Highlanders as composers, players and teachers of bagpipe music, and their college of piping in Gaelic, which is now a ruin, was at the time attended by 200 pipers."

Moreover, for 200 years it has always been a Macormick who has been the Scottish Highlander on which they figured—at Waterloo in 1815, and at a lot of other places.
The unrelenting ceremony was performed by the Macleod of Macleod, the veteran chief of the clan that name, to whose family at Burgess castle the Macormicks are hereditary pipers for more than 300 years. There were actually no memorials unveiled: one a monolith, the other a cairn, which occupies a position 200 feet above the Dunvegan and near the site of the old college of pipers, with this inscription in Gaelic:

The memorial cairn to the Mac-ormicks, of whom ten generations are the hereditary pipers of Macleod, and who were renowned as composers, performers and instructors of the classical music of the bagpipe, for this spot stood the Macormicks School of Music."

Moons of Planets

Jupiter has four large and five small satellites; Saturn has ten, while Mars has but two, so far as discovered.
One of the planets may have moons yet unidentified. One of the first discoveries made by Galileo with his telescope, early in the seventeenth century, was that Jupiter had four moons. When Galileo reported his discovery few people believed it, the scientist refused to even look through Galileo's scope. He died soon after and Galileo remarked that he had this skeptic had seen those moons on his way to heaven. It was not until nearly three centuries later, 1684, that the other moons of Jupiter were found. Huygens, the Dutch astronomer, discovered the first of Saturn's moons, in 1655, while the tenth was found in 1933. Nearly all the discoveries of these small moons have been made in the United States, as in the case of the largest telescope, the Lick Observatory.

Financial
and Commercial

New York, Dec. 23 (AP).—Financial markets shuffled along a little wearily today, notwithstanding brighter New Year's vistas and the beginning of the year-end tax selling pressure.

Stocks were exceptionally dull in the early hours, with frequent wide intervals between transactions.
There was still a drizzle of cash transfers for income statements, but these apparently had little effect on prices. Equities moved in a narrow range, generally, although there were scattered soft spots in evidence.
Grains were a bit heavy, wheat leading a cent or more a bushel. Cotton and most other commodities were listless. The dollar recorded only minor fluctuations in foreign exchange dealings, as no change was made in the domestic gold rate.
Bonds about held their own.

Alcohol shares were given a little play at one time with National Distillers, U. S. Industrial and American Commercial getting up 1 to around 2 points. Consolidated Gas advanced a point and some improvement was shown by Liggett & Myers R. U. S.
Smelting, Standard Oil of California, Deere and Union Bag & Paper.
Losers of fractions to a point or more included U. S. Steel, Woolworth, Sears Roebuck, Chrysler, American Can, American Telephone, Johns-Manville, Du Pont, Allied Chemical, Union Pacific, Santa Fe and Westinghouse.

The financial district appeared to be giving more attention to business and industrial developments than to the monetary problem, although the latter is still considered of highest importance and details of the government's plans were being eagerly awaited.

About Swagger Crochet Accessories

By CHERRIE NICHOLAS

WOULDN'T you just love to be the proud possessor of some one, or for that matter, all the dress accessories here pictured? There are thousands of us that always come to the holders as the time to "do fancy work." Such fun as it will be to work on these pretty things during the long and tedious midwinter hours!
And think of the joy of having a collection of these swagger dress accessories in readiness to wear with your spring and summer frocks.

These dainty little fancies are actually crocheted (the sailor collar is knit) from crepe paper. There has been quite a lot of crepe paper items going the rounds this season but we think the ones we are here showing are smarter and more outstanding than any which have gone before. The best of it is the expense is next to nothing, for the crepe paper of which they are made costs but a few pennies.

If you have in your wardrobe a simple dark dress that needs a bit of "life" or some good old standby frock that needs a new look, one of these fifty little crochets is sure to "do the trick." One of the joys of making these items is the fact that the crepe paper comes in as many as forty detectable colors and you can work any color scheme your costume calls for. And what's more, nobody ever dreams that they are made of crepe paper.

In this limited space it is not possible to give detailed instructions "how to make," which need worry you not at all for it is possible to obtain working directions at most any place where materials for paper handicraft are sold. We might say, however, that the swagger collar, cuff and belt set photographed on the standing figure is done in the favorite fish net stitch.

The set pictured is in a lovely Chinese red and the dress is beige.

Fish net, by the way, is one of the easiest stitches to do and with the crepe paper you get a true fish-net lace effect.

The sailor collar, sketched to the left at the top, is a youthful design.
It is knit, instead of crocheted, of white crepe paper with a contrasting strand of the paper drawn through between the border and the collar.
The buttons are a matching red.

The sporty girdle or belt, sketched to the right above, is crocheted from brown crepe paper, cut in strips, stretched and twisted. The crocheting is done in the favorite popcorn stitch and the finished effect in the brown is distinctly that of leather.
Brass buttons set this girdle off to perfection.

The vest and cuff set, sketched below to the right, is decidedly out of the ordinary. Taking its inspiration from armor that knights wore in days of old, the designer most appropriately refers to it as the tournament set.
The original of this sketch was made of jade green paper. Worn with a simple black dress it is very effective.
It is also good looking with a crepe dress in matching green.

DESIGN FUR COATS
IN MEDIUM LENGTH

Women have a way of getting what they want. When they demanded fur coats in trotteur length, the designers got busy and turned out some extremely dashing models. These coats that are neither long nor short are especially suited to the youthful, boyish figure.

This season's versions include straight, belted or swagger types. Some have ruffles. Collars are standing. Peter Pan or cravat. Sleeves relate the story that has been going the rounds this year: Pleats or shirring at the shoulders, fullness below the elbow.

Short-haired furs, such as lapin, cat-yak and kid are the happiest choices for the fur trotteur that is belted or swagger. Seal and krimmer make handsome straight-line finger-tip length coats.

Trimmings Are Important in Late Paris Fashions

Trimmings tell a striking tale in the 1934 winter fashions by Worth.
Feathers in the shape of a fringe for a flower, sparkling brass buttons and diamond belts trim the rich velvets and satins which build the ere-ning mode. Satin and velvet buttons and bows ornament afternoon frocks; fur sleeves appear on wool ensembles.

One of the most striking frocks in the collection, worn by the blond French actress, Jeanne Aubert, is a dinner gown of pink satin which has a tiny cluster of pink rosebuds perched on each shoulder and is accompanied by a muff of the same pink rosebuds.

A black velvet evening gown has a high front decollete and a low vee back edged in diamond braid. A beige velvet dinner gown is designed with a shoulder line edged in glycerated coque feathers.

Velvet Bows

Tailored velvet bows in light blue add a new touch to the bodices of dark wool frocks. Shell pink appears on black, blue-green or brown.

EXQUISITE CAPE
By CHERRIE NICHOLAS

Paris alone could do a wrap like this. To create this lovely fantasy Andree poses tiny squares of ermine upon a foundation of chiffon transparent velvet, with beaded work of brass in the open spaces which glistens and sparkles in keeping with the snowy whiteness of the fur. Note the wide sparkling jeweled bracelet. A wide handsome bracelet is inevitable for evening chic. This is only one of many of the beautiful little capes which glorify formal attire this season. Another model which is so pretty and dainty and feminine you want it for your own at first sight is fashioned of thursted and supplest of white velvet, the same bordered all around with rows made of the identical white velvet.

Ostrich Capes

Short capes of shimmering ostrich, shimmering velvet of soft coque feathers are a favorite accessory for winter evening frocks and formal wear.
Length capes made of silver or gray fores are among the richest evening wraps.

CAMEL TEST IN 1856
RECALLED IN TEXASDaughters of Confederacy Mark Site With Plaque.

San Antonio, Texas.—In a remote and sparsely settled section of Brew County, Texas, stands an old stone ranch house, in the shadow of which a simple ceremony recently revived an almost forgotten chapter in the military and economic history of the United States.

The old ranch house was not always such. Once it was the officers' headquarters building at Camp Verde, an important military post on the Texas frontier. Reputedly laid out by Robert E. Lee, later commander in chief of the Confederate army, but then a United States colonel of cavalry in Texas, Camp Verde became famous as the home of the government camel herd imported from the Levant during the administration of Jefferson Davis as United States secretary of war.

Crumbling ruins of the camel "barn" or pen, part of whose "dove walls" were sixteen feet high, remain near the ranch house as evidence of the experimental use of humped beasts from the Near East in American military and commercial transport.

Dedicate Plaque.

In the recent ceremony the United Daughters of the Confederacy, division of Texas, dedicated a bronze marker commemorating what is left of Camp Verde, whose hallowed walls are linked with the past presence of such men as the illustrious Lee and Albert Sidney Johnston.

History records that Camp Verde, or Fort Verde, as it also was called, was established as a military post on July 8, 1856. It is sixty-five miles northwest of San Antonio.

The old fort was captured by Confederate troops on February 28, 1861.
As written in "Texas Camel Tales," quoted by Chris Emmett of San Antonio, Lieutenant Hill of the Confederate forces reported that among other things captured at the post were "eight camels and two Egyptian drivers." Jefferson Davis, then secretary of war in 1855, obtained a $30,000 congressional appropriation for the camels, and Maj. Henry Constantine Wayne, who went to the Levant for the animals, brought the first ship-load via old Powder Horn (Indianola), Texas.

75 Were Imported.

The first cargo of thirty-four camels —seventy-five were imported in two shipments—was unloaded on May 13, 1856, at Indianola, the Texas port which long ago was swept away by a gulf storm.

Although employment of the army camels actually included use in the pursuit of Indians, their outstanding uses were in Lieut. W. H. Echols' reconnaissance of the Texas Big Bend section (near the Rio Grande) with a camel train in 1860 and, prior to that, Lieut. E. F. Beale's camel expedition to California in 1857 to survey the "Great Wagon Road" over a southern route. Incidentally, the Southern Pacific railroad later was built practically along that route, and the advance of the steam locomotive was one of the developments that discouraged continuance and extension of camel transport. But during the Civil war camels carried Confederate cotton—two bales to the camel—to the Mexican border at Brownsville, returning with salt from salt lakes near the Gulf coast.

After the war private owners acquired the government camels, Beale Coopwood buying sixty-six at $31 a head at San Antonio in 1868. Use of the animals in private transportation enterprises, however, did not prove profitable. Eventually many of the camels found their way to circuses; others strayed off or were turned loose.

Blind Man Looks After His Own Vegetable Plot

Rochester, N. Y.—Undaunted by the fact he is totally blind, William Easton of Rochester supports a wife and six-year-old daughter. To do this he has turned jack-of-all-trades.

Most outstanding among his many efforts to keep the family ladder full is his role of luck farmer.

Although hemmed in by the boundaries of his own small yard, Easton managed to raise enough vegetables this year to be the envy of the neighborhood. Undaunted and entirely on his own initiative, he tilled the soil, laid out 20 rows of corn, planted tomato beds, and finally brought to fruit a bumper crop of carrots, beets, squash, and many other vegetables.

In his own way, he proudly "watched" the garden grow. Every morning he felt the tiny aprons with his sensitive fingers.

His wife, who is partially blind, explained her husband planted the garden by means of stakes and cord, using these as a guide for his spade.

Indians Attend Tribal Dances in Limousines

Fairfax, Okla.—Osage Indians recently celebrated the sixty-first anniversary of their trek to Oklahoma to establish the Osage nation on the "bad lands."

Accidentally the "bad lands" turned out to be resting on rich pools of oil and the Osages became a wealthy nation.

Today, though many have squandered their wealth and much has been lost in wastefulness, they still drive their large limousines to the tribal dances celebrating their march to the Oklahoma territory.

Shipping Was Frozen Hard And Fast In The Hudson River Today

Shipping was frozen hard and fast in the Hudson river today.
Two vessels were locked in the ice between Poughkeepsie and Newburgh, while others were held back off Kingston and between Albany and Troy.

The Hudson river tugboat Osage of West Haverstraw, England, with 10 men aboard was frozen in the river below the city. The ship had discharged a large quantity of lumber from Russia, was ready to proceed down the river but as she was headed upstream and held in the ice, the captain, Arthur Arbuckle, was sent to her assistance. The tugboat was managed by the Hudson river bridge authority, New York, then sent off and stranded up the river.
The tugboat, however, once more swung back in an up-stream position. She tried to signal the cutter, but the ice and had frozen her whistle, and she could not "say a word." She was still held here this forenoon.

Among shipping crippled by the Hudson river ice, were the Danish freighter Ivan, and the German vessel Birkenfeld, hanging fire from Dantzig. The motor freighter Marshall B. Hill also was held in the ice.

The Moon's Path

The earth does not describe an ellipse about the sun, asserts an astronomer. The center of gravity (the point of balance) of the earth and moon describes the ellipse. The earth revolves on either side of this path in 29 1/2 days (the interval of time from one full moon to the next full moon). At the line of full moon, the center of the earth is 2,900 miles inside of this path and on the next full moon 2,900 miles outside of the path.
The moon performs much like the earth but by being smaller than the earth, the amount of deviation from the elliptical path of the center of gravity is much greater. At the time of full moon the moon is 230,000 miles outside of the path, and at the time of new moon, 230,000 miles inside of
